

Rescue

Like most small communities across the nation, West Point relies on professionally trained volunteers for Emergency Medical Service. Because members of West Point Rescue occasionally retire, leave the community or experience changes in life-style that no longer permit them to volunteer their time, West Point Rescue is always looking for men and women who will train as Emergency Medical Technicians and continue our tradition of community service.

Call Schedule

History

Meetings

Membership Form

Policies

Training